Day 1

Arrival and check in at the Husky lodge, located at the sleddogkennel. We say Hi to the dogs, and we show you how to harness the dogs, trying the sleds & go through the technique. We take a look at the equipment and after a nice dinner we look at the map, we show you how to navigate with both compass and GPS. It's time to decide if we stay in tent or cabin, the weather and the groups expectations will decide. We will aim for at least 1 night in tent..

Day 2

Early morning we pack the car and set of to the mountains. Its time to go with the dogs, and they will take you trough breathtaking views among the magnificent mountains and wilderness of Sweden... let the adventure begin. We take lunch break when we see a nice spot. When its time to set camp, the whole group helps out and above all - take care of the dogs. Dinner under the open sky.

Day 3

We wake up to the first morning in the mountains, maybe we are the only ones in this area? It's a nice feeling and totally quiet. After the dogs and our self had breakfast, we are on the way again. Today you should have the right "muscherfeeling" and be able to master the sled. Sometimes it's hard work for us and the dogs, but when we see the delightful view around us we are getting paid back. When camp is set, we attend to the dogs to check that everyone is ok. We check their paws, claws and feel trough legs and body. They get some extra snacks for good work. Together we make dinner, some of us cook and some are melting snow for water to us and the dogs.

Day 4

Before having breakfast, we feed the dogs, they need some time to rest before running. The weather decides what way we choose today. It can change fast in the mountains... from blue sky & sun to storm & blizzard. Especially hard wind takes much energy from the dogs and people. At the end of the day, we take farewell of the mountains & we drive back to Husky lodge. After shower and our last dinner together we take a look at all nice pictures we taken and talk about our adventure.
